The mainly forested 80 hectare property is located in the foothills of Barrington Tops at an elevation of about 750m with easy bushwalking tracks on-site.

Environmental features

The eco-cabin has an independent solar electricity system (both 12V & 240V) and rainwater supply.

There is a flush toilet and artificial wetland waste water treatment, composting, wool insulation, and wood stoves for cooking, heating and hot water. Firewood is provided.

Native forest and rare and threatened native wildlife are protected on the site.

Guided bushwalks

Guided bushwalks can be arranged in the nearby world heritage forests of Mt Royal and Barrington Tops National Parks and other areas of the Hunter Valley.

The walks range from easy to adventurous, and include night time wildlife spotlighting walks.

The name 'Callicoma' means beautiful. Callicoma serratifolia is a small tree with serrated leaves and silver flower balls. It flowers in spring and grows in gullies on the property.

Activities

Go bushwalking, see the rainforest and mountain views, take a forest drive, or sit on the verandah and relax.

Callicoma Hill provides opportunities to watch birds and native animals in their natural environment, including kangaroos, wallabies and a number of threatened species.

Climb Mount Royal or Pieries Peak, see the world heritage rainforest of Mount Royal and Barrington Tops National Parks. Go fishing, boating or canoeing at Lake St Clair, or ride your mountain bike on quiet roads.

The weather at Callicoma Hill is variable. Winter usually brings mild sunny days with cool nights 0-10 degrees, ideal for sitting by the fire and relaxing. Summer is warm to hot, ideal for enjoying the verandah and balmy evenings. Spring and autumn generally have settled, sunny weather and are the best times for bushwalking.
